Press Release No. 002/07

The United Nations Delivers on its Commitment to Boost AMIS Capabilities, Hands Over First Batch of Equipment to the African Mission

Khartoum, Al Fasher-11 January 2007: United Nations-African Union cooperation in Darfur took another step forward today.

In the implementation of the UN Light Support Package to the African Union Mission in Sudan, UNMIS handed over today the first batch of equipment and supplies to AMIS. The remainder of the Light Support Package equipment to be handed over to AMIS is expected to be delivered in the coming weeks.

The equipment, including night vision goggles, generators, tents and other supplies, is part of the first phase of UNMIS support to AMIS, known as the Light Support Package, worth a total of US$ 21 million.

Phase two of UN support to AMIS in Darfur will consist of a Heavy Support Package, including additional staff and equipment. The UN and the AU are in the process of finalizing the Heavy Support Package and will jointly inform the Government of Nation Unity of Sudan on its details in the framework of the Tripartite Mechanism.

In addition to equipment and supplies, the Light Support Package is comprised of personnel fully dedicated to supporting AMIS, namely 105 military staff officers, 33 police advisers and 48 civilians working in the areas of logistics, administration, support to the DPA and mine action. As of today 17 military staff officers and 19 police advisers are already in Darfur.

This support comes in response to the findings of the Joint AU-UN Technical Assessment Mission, which were shared with the Government of Sudan, and pursuant to the Communiqué of the African Union PSC, adopted at its 58th meeting on 27 June 2006. It is also based on a number of specific areas identified by the United Nations and the African Union Commission where the United Nations could provide concrete support to AMIS.

A full list of the equipment handed over today is attached.
